PROFILE

Technology is my passion but it hasn't always been this way. Early in my career, I realised my passion for technology by working for the worlds leading software solutions provider for the freight forwarding industry.

In my experience, the most engaging aspect of technology is problem-solving. Problem-solving is a challenge I have always enjoyed - from tinkering with cars through to developing websites.

The potential of where we could be in terms of technology in 50 or 100 years fascinates me. It's exciting to know that being involved in technology allows me to take my career in any direction.

ACHIEVEMENTS

Built local partner network

In my role as a partner manager at WiseTech Global, I have built the South African partner network to support our local customers. This partner network assists the local strategy in converting customers from legacy systems to our new platform.

Designed a freight estimate module

In short, this module was developed in order for freight forwarders to manage their rates electronically and to send estimates to clients. By creating this module freight forwarders could improve the quality, speed and profitability of each estimate sent.

Automated business processes

At WiseTech Global, I have automated business processes within the framework of the PAVE application (Kanban Board). Through internal training and product setup, I have automated the workflows of defect handling and product support.

Learnt the Theory of Constraints

The Theory of Constraints is a key methodology within WiseTech Global which I have studied and built a strong knowledge of and therefore gained the know how to manage risk using the principles of TOC.
